The danger to the Union cause is not in the Confederate armies. Notwithstanding they have procured a temporary relief at Richmond, at a vast sacrifice of danger is in the ill conduct of that effete body at Washington. The lack of statesmanship, their fanatical and revengeful legislation, dally disgusts the country, and stimulates the enemy, whilst it exasperates those South disposed to abandon the rebellion. They will pass a confiscation bill. which is but a transcript of the revengeful feeling of its authors, not warranted by the Constitution, and useless to put down the rebellion; for it can only be executed when the rebels have no power. The old recipe for catching birds, by throwing salt on their tails, is about as philosophicst. "Throw salt on that bird's tail," said a pape to his urchin, "and you can catch him." "Yes," said the urchin, "and if I can catch him, I can throw salt on his tail." Whilst this is true, it may be admitted; for it is true that this anti-slavery party TERMS OF DAILY DEMOCRAT TO THE owes its strength and its power to the infamous conduct of James Buchanan and his faction toward Kansas, and their claims of Congressional action in behalf of slavery, never urged before; claims, indeed, inconsistent with compromises made in good faith. Whilst Abolitionists would have remained as pestilent as ever, they would have been, also, as powerless, but for the provocation given Northern sentiment by the bad faith of Buchanan and his friends; by their repudiation of principles and pledges. The Democrats allowed this to be done in their name. Nearly the whole of

From McClellan's Army.

[Correspondence of the N. Y. Herald.] From the two rebel officers (prisoners) mentioned in my last latter, I also learned the following facts, which throw additional light upon the movements of the rebels before our late retreat, and upon their probable plans for the summer campaign. Before I preceed, let me recall the attention of the reader to what I said in regard to the personal character of these two officers, and to their candor and truthfulness. alone, of all the prisoners with whom I con-versed, admitted to its full extent the terrible injury which we had inflicted on their army, in the bloody contest from the 27th of June to the 2d of July. They alone bore unqualified testimony to the superb strategy of McClellan, which they compared to that of Napoleon; to the perfect understanding and happy accord which exist between him and his generals, and the prompt and effective manner in which they execute his orders, and to the steady discipline and unflinching courage of our troops, opposed, as they knew them to be, by three times their number, and by constant re-enforce-ments of fresh enemies. They express the utmost astonishment, not at the retreat itself (that they knew must take place whenever they moved their overwhelming numbers upon our little army, with whose exact numerical strength they were well acquaint-ed), but at the superb and successful mannet in which it was conducted; at the unconquerable spirit of our troops, and at the bold and undaunted front which we presented to them every succeeding morning during the memorable seven days. No one but a Napoleon, they said, could have conceived and executed such a retreat, in the face of an army like theirs, and no troops but veterans could have held them in check as ours did. Ant I may here remark, myself, that this retreat, considered as a successful strategic movement, will always be regarded in history as one of the best fruits of the months of toil and labor which General McClellan bestowed upon the army during the progress of its formation at Washington. Compare this retreat with that from Bull Run. There were a thousand times the causes of panic and stampede on the Chickahominy that there were at Bull Run. And why was there neither panic nor stampede here? Because the troops were disciplined, and had confidence in their commander. But to return to the information which I derived from these officers.

They state that nothing gave the Confederate Government so much encouragement ever since the commencement of the peninsula campaign, and during its whole continuance, as the extraordinary conduct of Mr. Stanton in interfering with McClellan's plans, and in refusing him re-enforce nents. By means of their agents at Washington and elsewhere they were kept per fectly informed of the jealousy with which Stanton regarded McClellan. They were amazed at the folly which divided and cut up the grant army of the Potomac into four detached bodies. But when McClellan was sent to commence the peninsula campaign with a force so utterly inadequate to its vast extent, and when they saw, week after week, as his army was thinned out by battle and disease, how niggardly he was reenforced, the military leaders of the rebels resolved, by concentrating their troops from all other points from which a single regiment could be spared, not only to de-fend Richmond successfully, but also to utterly annihilate that portion of the army of the Potomac sent to the peninsula. By means of deserters and spies they were correctly informed, week by week, of the wan-ing strength of McClellan's army, as in its progress its ranks became thinned by battle feelings of amazement and joy, that no reenforcements of any amount were sent to fill up these gaps in the ranks.

About the five and a military council was held, attended by all the Generals of high rank. It was at this council that plans were adopted for the transfer of troops from Corinth to Richmond, and for Jack son's diversion towards Harper's Ferry. Immediately on Beauregard's return t Corinth his troops began to move towards Richmond, on the various lines of railroad, and by the time it became publicly known that Corinth was evacuated fifty thousand of his best troops had quietly reached Richmond. The rest of those who arrived continued to come in subsequently. The admirably managed railroad system of the South enabled them to summon and bring o Richmond any particular corps of troops in a very short time; and some of the regiments now at that city have not participated in any of the engagements of the famous seven days, having arrived since our grand movement towards the James river

I infer from what these officers say that t is the intention of General Lee to a furious onset upon McClellan's army at hopes of defeating it and driving the Union troops completely out of the peninsula. Hence the necessity of sending to Mc Clellan, if the government intend him to

Rebel Accounts. THE BATTLE OF TUESDAY AS DESCRIBED BY

from the Richmond Examiner of Friday, July 4. The battle of Tuesday was, perhaps, the fiercest and most sanguinary of the series of bloody conflicts that have signalized each of the last seven days. We have already adverted to the part played in the action by General Jackson and others, but, as yet. have made little mention of the operations upon the occasion of General Magruder and the troops under his command. We now propose to give such par-ticulars as we have obtained on the field after the battle: Early on Tuesday morning the enemy, from the position to which he had been driven the night before, continued his retreat in a southeasterly direction towards his gunboats on James river. At eight o'clock A. M., Magruder recommenced the pursuit, advancing cautiously, but steadily, and shelling the forests and swamps in front as he progressed. This method of advance was kept up throughout the morning, and until four o'clock P. M., without coming up with the enemy. But between four and five o'clock, our troops reached a large open field, a mile long and three quarters in width, on the farm of Dr. Carter. The enemy were discovered strongly intrenched in a dense forest on the other side of this field. Their artillery, of about fifty pieces, could be plainly seen bristling on their freshly constructed earthworks. At ten minutes before five o'clock, P. M., Gen. Magruder ordered his men to charge across the field and drive the enemy from their position. Gallantly they sprang to the en-counter, rushing into the field at a full run. Instantly from the line of the enemy's breastworks a murderous storm of grape and cannister was hurled into their ranks, with the most terrible effect.

Officers and men went down by hundreds; but yet, undaunted and unwavering, our line dashed on until two-thirds of the distance across the field was accomplished. Here the carnage from the withering fire of the enemy's artillery and musketry was and disease; and they saw, with mingled fell back to the cover of the woods. Twice again the effort to carry the position was renewed, but each time with the further o'clock was kept up by the artillery of both sides. To add to the horrors, if not the dangers, of the battle, the enemy's gunboats, from their position at Curl's Neck, two and a half miles distant, poured on the field continued broadsides from their immense rifle guns. Though it is questionable, as we have suggested, whether any se rious loss was inflicted on us by the gunboats, the horrors of the fight were aggravated by the monster shells, which tore shricking through the forests and exploded with a concussion which seemed to shake the solid earth itself. The moral effect on the Yankees of these terror-inspiring allies must have been very great; and in this, we believe, consisted their greatest damage to the army of the South.

It must not be inferred from the above count that the slaughter was all upon our We have the best of reasons to know that the well directed fire of our cannon and musketry, both before and subsequent to our efforts to storm the enemy's position, fell with fatal effect upon his heavily massed

At ten o'clock P. M., the last gun was fired from our side. Each side held the position occupied when the fight was begun, and during the remainder of the night each was busily engaged removing their wounded. The rumble of the enemy's ambulances and wagons, in rapid and hurried motion, did not cease even with the dawn. At ter o'clock Wednesday morning they were still busy, and discontinued their labors, not be cause their wounded had been removed, but for fear of our advance. Our wounded were carried from the field directly to the farm houses in the neighborhood, whence, after their injuries had been examined and dressed, they were brought to this city.

During the morning the enemy evacuated his position and retreated, still bearing in a southeasterly direction, and apparently not attempting to lessen the distance tween him and his gunboats.

The battlefield, surveyed through the cold rain of Wednesday morning, presented a scene too shocking to be dwelt upon without anguish. The woods and the field before mentioned were, on the western side, covered with our dead, in all the degrees of violent mutilation, while in the woods on the west of the field lay, in about equa numbers, the blue uniformed bodies of the enemy. Many of the latter were still alive, baving been left by their friends in their indecent haste to escape from the rebels. Great numbers of horses were killed or both sides, and the sight of their disfigured carcasses and the stench proceeding from them added much to the loathsome horrors of the bloody field. The cornfields, but recently turned by the ploughshare, were fur rowed and torn by the iron missiles. Thou sands of round shot and unexploded shells lay upon the surface of the earth. Among the latter were many of the enormous shells thrown from the gunboats. They were eight inches in width by twenty-three in length. The ravages of these monsters were everywhere discernible through the forests

In some places long avenues were cut through the tree tops, and here and there great trees, three and four feet in thickness, were burst open and split to very shreds. In one re markable respect this battle field differed in appearance from any of the preceding days. the track of the enemy's flight there were no castaway blue great coats, no blankets, tents or clothing; no letters, and no wasted commissary stores. He had, evidently, before reaching this point, thrown away everything that could retard his hasty retreat. Nothing was to be found on this portion of the field, but killed and wounded Yankees and their guns and knap-

Richmond Examiner Criticises the Rebel Authorities and is Rather Despondent.

WASHINGTON, July 11. The Richmond Examiner says of its own government there has already been enough of trifling and abuse of the public mind by the suppression or reservation of facts on the part of the government. If the commanding general could write a dozen lines giving the result of the fight at Gaines' Hill, why each succeeding day and night have we not had a bulletin of equal length, simply stating results? It would have cost but a trifle of time and would have conferred an incalculable profit on the whole country in composing public anxiety. If the first official display had not been fully public expectations are to be reduced, we believe that our people can bear the disappointment without waiting to hear the facts drop out through the slow and forced conns of those in authority. If McClellan has effected a communicaion with the river, why was not the fact boldly stated, instead of trifling with the public mind? We know the valor of our roops has, so far, prevailed; but what may be the strength of the remnant of his army; whether that remnant is yet surrounded by our lines, has escaped our grasp, and has been re-enforced for another grand battle, are questions which everybody has been asking for the last week, and which the Government plainly refuses to answer.

Upon the strait to which the rebels are now reduced, the Examiner says, the scene of operations has been removed to such a distance from Richmond that it is difficult him, and bids fair to win as high a name to the strain of t erally understood from the situation, it appears to admit of the severe alternates of an immediate assault upon the enemy, or of falling back to our lines.

Pow ell's Valley extends into Virginia; an from Cumberland Gap through the valle to Moccasin Gap is one of the best roads in the country. Thence to the salt works, and to the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad, Abingdon, there is nothing to stay his vitorious career, unless he is at once tacked and routed by the army under Gen Smith. The possession or even the partis destruction of the salt works by the ener would be a calamity to the Confederate States more serious than the fall of Richmond, for these works are almost the sole eliance of the South for one of the most indispensable necessaries of life. The character of the enemy in Powell's Valley is one, also, which, in addition to other incentives, should arouse up our government to every remin back. His force is in part composed of five or six regiments of East Tennessee renegades who come with oaths of vengeance on their hellish rage in their hearts, not to fight fo of the city councils. Dureaus of mance, and of streets and landings, consisting of four a political sentiment, nor to restore a permembers each had been appointed, among ished Union, but to glut their revenge in the blood and ruin of their former friends and neighbors, and to indemnify themselves by pillage for their time lost and substance wasted during the self banishment into which they were deluded by the cunning and unprincipled leaders whom the misfor confinement with hard labor, for exhib-iting bones, alleged to be of Yankee soldiers, spared to hound them on this diabolical work. Their course already has been marked by outrage which stock humanity, as we learn from those southern citizens who have escaped from their hands. Auother feature of their programe, we have plausibly hinted, is the the bridges on the upper end of the East Tennessee and Virginia railroad. If they are permitted to reach Moccasin Gap in Virrinia, an easy and protected road through Hawkins, Sullivan and Washington counties, brings them to the bridges at Union and Carter's Depots. Carter and Green counties are now swarming with armed raitors and bridge-burners, who openly vow their readiness to co-operate with any force the Federals may send on this mission.

All these facts sufficiently indicate, we think, an imperative necessity of at once checking the progress of the invaders up Powell's Valley. General Smith has a cri is to encounter which will admit of no dallying or half-way measures. We trust and believe that he will prove himself equal to the emergency. By a rapid and determined move he may rid East Tennessee of a courge, and a most serious danger of Confederacy, and at once place himself in the front rank of the heroes of this

ARRIVAL OF MORMONS .- About two hundred of the disciples of Brigham Young arrived here yesterday, in the packet ship Windermere, from Havre. The number was pretty equally made up of men, women and children—all quiet, inoffensive looking, blueeyed Swiss. They were accommodated with emporary quarters at Castle Garden, where Messrs. Bates and Eldridge, the Mormon elders resident in this city, saw that they were properly cared for. They were much more quiet and orderly than the usual class of emigrants, with whom they showed but little disposition to associate. The charms of the female portion seemed to have been sadly impaired by hard manual labor, and judging from their round shoulders, hard, bony hands and flat, broad feet, they had spent a considerable portion of their time in performing tasks for which the rougher sex re specially intended. They will leave here to-day en route for the Great Salt Lake. Since the beginning of the present year about two thousand five hundred Mormons have arrived at this port alone, and have gone West to swell the number of Brigham Young's followers.—N. Y. From Washington. [Correspondence of the Commercial Advertiser.

WASHINGTON, July 7. President Lincoln is untiring in his attention to military matters. At an early hour every morning he rides in on horse-back from the Soldiers' Home, and it is often late at night ere he returns to his family, after having passed from twelve to fifteen hours either at the White House or at the War Office. Within the past few days he has doubtless had the advice of General Marcy, of the army of the Potomac, and Generals Mitchell, Wallace and Pope, of the army of the West, as the papers an nounce that those officers are here.

There is also reason to believe that the President receives no small amount of advice from politicians, who intrude upon him with their opinions, and who are sometimes rather more emphatic than courteous. "I tell you, Mr. President," said a Senator one day, "unless a proposition for emancipation is adopted by the Government, we will all go to the d—l. At this very moment we are not over one mile from h—l." "Perhaps replied the President, "as I believe that is just about the distance from here to the Capitol, where you gentlemen are in

COL. FITCH'S COMMAND .- We have been told a great deal about matters up White River, but we think the news from that bristling stream may be summed up in the statements that Col. Fitch is safe and well; and that the banks are lined with guerrillas, possessed of a few guns taken from a sunken boat, which they use to erect shifting batteries, annoying transports but harmless to gunboats .- Memphis Appeal, 9th.

What's the Opps?-That when the news of the destruction by fire of the White House reaches England, we shan't have leaders in all the London papers about the capture of Washington - Vanity Fair.

COTTON IN LILINOIS .- It is estimated that from fifteen to twenty thousand bales of cotton, of good staple, will be sent to market from Illinois the present year.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO, officers and soldiers absent from their duty with the various divisions of this army Some of them have gone off without any authority; others with the permission of officers not authorized to grant it. In general, sickness is given as the cause of absence, but in very many cases that cause has notoriously ceased to exist, and men remain away, drawing the same pay as their com-rades who are faithfully performing their duty. To correct this abuse it is ordered-

1. All officers and soldiers who are absent without direct authority from these Headquarters, the period for which has not expired, will, on or before the 10th of July proximo, join their companies or regiments wherever they may be. If ignorant of their locality, they will report to the command-ing officer at Louisville or Nashville, by whom they will be directed to their regi-ments, or put on such light duty as they may be able to perform, if they are not entirely fit for active service: and these will be promptly reported to their regimental commanders by the officer so assigning them. The cases of those who fail to join as above required, will be disposed of as fol-

2. If any absent officer or soldier, in consequence of sickness or wounds, is absolutely unable to report for duty as above required, he will forward by mail the "The Assistant Adjutant General. District of the Ohio, Nashville Tennessee," a Certificate of Disability, according to the following form:

CERTIFICATE OF DISABILITY. I declare on oath, that I have carefully find him incapable of performing the duties of a soldier for the following reasons: Choice Toilet and Pancy Articles; Here state all the facts known concerning ity: the time, place, manner, and all the nall Purposes, &c.; the time, place, manner, and all the circumstances under which the injury oc- Pine Tobacco and Cigars. curred or disease originated; the duty or situation of the officer or soldier at the time the injury was received or disease

This certificate must be subscribed and sworn to by a Surgeon or private Physician in good standing, and known as such by the magistrate or other officer by whom the oath is administered; and on it a discharge will be ordered from these Head-quarters or the case otherwise disposed of according to the circumstances.

8. The death of any officer or soldier which has occurred since the 1st of January last, while he was absent from his regiment or company, and which has not been report ed by the Surgeon of the Hospital in which the death occurred, or by the friends of the deceased if not in Hospital, will be imme diately reported by the Surgeon of the Hospital, or by the affidavit of friends, to The Assistant Adjutant General, District of the Ohio, Nashville," setting forth the date of decease and other material circumnot join their companies and regiments, or ers, dating from the time they may have been absent without authority. By act of Congress every deserter forfeits all claim on the government for pay and allowances, besides being liable to arrest and trial by Court Martial. Any person who apprehends and returns a deserter to the commanding officer of a military post, is entitled to a reward of five dollars. By command of Major General Buel. JAMES B. FRY.

GREENMAN & TRUE'S NEW SHUTTLE

Sewing Machine! Elias Howe, Jr., and S. H. Roper's Com bined Patents. Straight-Line Movements, Original Transverse Shuttle, and Periphery Clamp Feed-Wheel.

THESE SEWING MACHINES COMBINE THE most recent improvements, are nearly noiseless when in operation, run with the greatest ease and rapidity, and are better adapted for general purposes and family use than any other. They are not liable to get out of order, are exceedingly elimple, and are made expressly for real practical utility; they do every variety of seving, from the finest woven tissue to the heaviest woolen goods, both tailoring and fine leather work. Any person may hear it to operate them in a very short he great difficulty with all other old-style Machine too much complication, requiring so much constant ustment, and such an amount of mechanical slid ingenuity to use them to advantage, as to rende m of little comparative value. Sut the Sewing Machines manufactured by Green as True are not liable to these objections, as an amount of the comparative value. are a free are not hance to these operation, will rea-isoower. They will do more and better work than ther Machine ever offered to the public, making nost beautiful lock-stitch, alike on both sides. So gran off-shand specimen of sewing upon any mate ou wish, and you will then see now it is done.
